Dr. George Dillard III, Senior Minister of Peachtree City Christian Church in Peachtree City, Georgia, offers readers a fresh three-step plan enabling each of us to grow as strong and effective disciples for Christ. The simple principles Dr. Dillard explains will guide novices as well as seasoned Christians in developing relationships, in sharing the path to Jesus, and in living and teaching the truths that we have learned as His followers. The Big Mission gives insightful and practical suggestions to guide our journey in discovering the life that God has called us to live. 100% of the proceeds of this book are donated to the ministries of Peachtree City Christian Church. How far out of your comfort zone would you be willing to explore just to find your purpose in life? Dr. Leba Brader is a well-liked and highly skilled trauma surgeon who longs for adventure outside the safety of the base hospital. When she embarks on a quest to join an expeditionary scientific mission on a remote ice moon in order to realize her full potential and make a difference, she gets more than she expected. After enduring long hours of combat and tactical training, she is confident in A unique look at the successful Ñ though nearly disastrous Ñ Apollo 11 moon landing! In a riveting narrative told from the astronautsÕ points of view, readers get to relive every step of Apollo 11Õs 1969 mission Ñ from ignition to moon walk to splashdown Ñ including the nail-biting (and relatively unknown) crucial moments when it came close to failure. And, setting this book apart, each step is linked to the innovations and discoveries from the past four centuries that made it possible. ItÕs a fascinating new perspective on an epic journey Ñ and how STEM set it in motion! Readers better fasten their seat belts, theyÕre in for the ride of a lifetime! It's An Undercover Adventure! When a remote island's rain forest is threatened by the greedy timber company Loggocorp, the Humans Who Know (that mice have evolved) develop a secret plan to save the forest. And they need all the help they can get from the Big Cheese, Trey, and their other friends in the Mouse Nation. First, the team must unravel a centuries-old mystery: Who actually owns the rain forest? The mission to find that person brings Megan and her family across the ocean to England, where everything starts to go just a little bit . . . weird. Loggocorp spies are watching the family's every move as they, too, search for the rightful owner of the island's natural treasure. It's a race against the clock to save the rain forest! The trail leads to a duke's palace full of strange guests and a clan of helpful British mice. And Megan, the most famous human in the world (among mice), has to face her biggest challenge yet. Nine-year-old Ron loves going to the Lake City Public Library to look through all the books on airplanes and flight. Today, Ron is ready to take out books by himself. But in the segregated world of South Carolina in the 1950s, Ron's obtaining his own library card is not just a small rite of passage—it is a young man's first courageous mission. Here is an inspiring story, based on Ron McNair's life, of how a little boy, future scientist, and Challenger astronaut desegregated his library through peaceful resistance. He's a little guy, but he's followed his dream to become a service animal, even though he has a physical disability. What does Lucky do now? Find out in Lucky...Little guy, BIG mission! Do you often wonder why? Why am I here? Do I serve a purpose? God says yes. No matter your age or your circumstances, you have a powerful purpose. Do you have a passion for something? The poor? A country? Justice? Just because you are in school doesn't mean you can't do something about it now. Your purpose and your passion intersect—you just have to find where. Read My Name is Erin: One Girl's Mission to Make a Difference and: Discover and replace your fake purpose with your real purpose. Learn how to stop waiting and live as a mission-minded girl NOW. Be inspired by stories of girls like you that said "Yes, Lord." My Name is Erin: One Girl's Mission to Make a Difference is one in a series of four books, which can be read in any order. The other titles are: My Name is Erin: One Girl's Journey to Discover Truth My name is Erin: One Girl's Journey to Discover Who She Is My Name is Erin: One Girl's Plan for Radical Faith This Deluxe Paint Box Book based on Disney 2 Pixar's upcoming feature film "Cars 2," opening in theaters on June 24, comes with 16 paintwells and a brush. Illustrations. Consumable. Small towns are big mission fields that are almost totally neglected by modern churches. City ministry has become, for many, the definition of godly ministry. This is a call to take the gospel everywhere, big or small, because that is what Jesus told us to do. Donnie Griggs uncovers the biblical teaching that helps churches get in line with Jesus' mission to reach all people. Three career Army officers, the author's father, grandfather and uncle, are thrust into the global struggle to save the world from Hitler's Nazi empire. United by their love of Imogene—daughter, sister, and wife—their letters to her and her replies chronicle the personal side of war. Imogene's father, Major General Donald Stroh, initially the assistant commander of the 9th Infantry Division, later commanded the 8th and 106th Infantry Divisions. Her husband, Lieutenant Colonel Robert Stumpf, commanded a battalion in the 9th and later, a regiment in the 106th. Their campaigns began in North Africa in late 1942 and concluded in Germany nearly three years later. Imogene's brother, Captain Harry Stroh, was a P-47 Thunderbolt flight leader in the 362nd Fighter Group who at times flew close support missions for both the 8th and 9th Divisions in Normandy and Brittany. Letters to Imogene includes insights into the personalities of some of the war's luminaries: Generals Eisenhower, Patton, and "Lightnin' Joe" Collins, among others. The family narrative is rife with hardship and humor, courage, heartbreak, and triumph, and their letters present a unique and compelling window into the lives of those who fought and won the Second World War. The Big Cell is material specifically designed for children aged 8-12 to use in peer-led cells, with the help and advice of a wise adult. The Big Cell recognises that leadership ability is evident in young people even before they hit adolescence and their teen years. Few, however, are really given the chance to exercise the gifts God has given them, to take a lead and to rely on God in new ways. Cells are one way in which children can take on leadership and responsibility in 'bite-sized chunks' with the covering and support of a 'Wise Person'. You may have a group of children who you know are ready for this challenge or a group who still need an adult's supervision, but are ready to be given a chance to lead. You may just be looking for new material to use with your children's group. This material can be used in a cell group situation, whether led by children or adults. Although the material is a curriculum programme, the aim is for cell values to be imparted such as member care, participation by all and discovering gifting. The material uses the Four Ws structure now used around the world in cell churches. 'History Makers' is designed to make children aware of God's big plan of history and help them to become active in discovering how they can fit in to His plan. They can connect into His mission to rescue planet earth. When the children get to know God and make him known, watch out world! Contains all 8 books in the interlinked Zac Power Extreme and Mega Mission Super Series! Mega Missions: Zac Power and his spy agency GIB are facing their biggest challenge yet - but so much of the mission is a mystery! What does Zac's long-lost grandpa have to do with it, and who is BIG's incredible new agent? GIB have no idea what's coming, and only Zac can save the day... Extreme Missions: When Zac Power's grandpa drags him on a new mission in the middle of the night, Zac is pumped. They're racing to find the four parts of a powerful gadget called IRIS. But Grandpa won't say what IRIS does, or why it's been broken up. The only thing Zac knows is that this time, the threat is bigger than to just GIB. If they don't find IRIS before their enemies do, the whole world will be in danger... When developers leveled trees to clear land for building houses, many forest creatures lost their homes, including a small bat. Unable to find his mother in the chaos, he left in search of safer surroundings. There he met Timmy, a small freckled-faced boy dealing with a loss of his own. Together they strike up a friendship that is destined to rescue them both. Life can sometimes be unfair when offering lesson for us to learn, but as Timmy will soon discover, it's always easier when we have true friends to lean on. NASA's Science Mission Directorate (SMD) currently operates over five dozen missions, with approximately two dozen additional missions in development. These missions span the scientific fields associated with SMD's four divisionsâ€"Astrophysics, Earth Science, Heliophysics, and Planetary Sciences. Because a single mission can consist of multiple spacecraft, NASA-SMD is responsible for nearly 100 operational spacecraft. The most high profile of these are the large strategic missions, often referred to as "flagships." Large strategic missions are essential to maintaining the global leadership of the United States in space exploration and in science because only the United States has the budget, technology, and trained personnel in multiple scientific fields to conduct missions that attract a range of international partners. This report examines the role of large, strategic missions within a balanced program across NASA-SMD space and Earth sciences programs. It considers the role and scientific productivity of such missions in advancing science, technology and the long-term health of the field, and provides guidance that NASA can use to help set the priority of larger missions within a properly balanced program containing a range of mission classes. Veteran airmen from both the European and Pacific theaters recount their recollections of the Second World War in the Air. From attacks on Japanese cities to intercepting the Luftwaffe the airmen recall the deeds of the "Greatest Generation". The B-24 was heavily utilised in the North African and Mediterranean theatres by the USAAF's Fifteenth Air Force, with operations over the Ploesti oilfields in Rumania being some of the most famous missions undertaken by the big American 'heavy' in World War 2. The stirring work of the Fifteenth Air Force is often overshadowed by the glamorous 'Mighty Eighth', yet the men flying the B-24 fought ceaselessly right through to VE Day. This is the third of five titles planned to chart the operational history of the Consolidated heavy bomber, and is the first single volume to exclusively cover the Fifteenth Air Force's B-24 units. One summer day in 1959, nine-year-old Ron McNair, who dreams of becoming a pilot, walks into the Lake City, South Carolina, public library and insists on checking out some books, despite the rule that only white people can have library cards. Includes facts about McNair, who grew up to be an astronaut. Day trading can be perilous or profitable--depending upon the expertise of the trader. After decades of painstaking planning, NASA's first dedicated exoplanet detection mission, the Kepler space telescope, was launched in 2009 from Cape Canaveral. Kepler began a years-long mission of looking for Earth-like planets amongst the millions of stars in the northern constellations of Lyra and Cygnus. Kepler's successful launch meant that it was only a matter of time before we would know just how many Earth-like planets exist in our galaxy. A revolution in thinking about our place in the universe was about to occur, depending on what Kepler found. Are earths commonplace or rare? Are we likely to be alone in the universe? Only Kepler could start to answer these vexing questions. Universal Life provides a unique viewpoint on the epochal events of the last two decades and the excitement of what will transpire in the coming decades. Author Alan Boss's perspective on this story is unmatched. Boss is the Chair of NASA's Exoplanet Exploration Program Analysis Group, and was also on the Kepler Mission science team. Kepler proved that essentially every star in the night sky has a planetary system, and that most of these systems contain a habitable world, potentially capable of evolving and supporting life. Universal Life summarizes the current state of exoEarth knowledge, and also reveals what will happen next in the post-Kepler world, namely the narrowing of the search for habitable worlds to the stars that are the closest to Earth, those that offer the best chances for future ground- and space-based telescopes to search for, and detect, possible signs of life in their atmospheres. We have come far in the search for life beyond the Earth, but the most exciting phase is about to begin: we may soon be able to prove that we are not alone in the universe. "North American evangelicals learned to do church in relation to modernity," asserts David Fitch. Furthermore, evangelicals have begun to model their ministries after the secular sciences or even to farm out functions of the church whenever it seems more efficient. As a result, the church, too often, has stopped being the church. In The Great Giveaway, Fitch examines various church practices and shows how and why each function has been compromised by modernity. Discussing such ministries as evangelism, physical healing, and spiritual formation, Fitch challenges Christians to reclaim these lost practices so that the church can regain its influence. Pastors, leaders, and students who minister to the postmodern world will find in this book fresh insight that will stir the hearts of many and spark much-needed discussion about the evangelical church. The pressure to generate big ideas can feel overwhelming. We know that bold innovations are critical in these disruptive and competitive times, but when it comes to breakthrough thinking, we often freeze up. Instead of shooting for a $10-billion payday or a Nobel Prize, the most prolific innovators focus on Big Little Breakthroughs—small creative acts that unlock massive rewards over time. By cultivating daily micro-innovations, individuals and organizations are better equipped to tackle tough challenges and seize transformational opportunities. How did a convicted drug dealer launch and scale a massively successful fitness company? What core mindset drove LEGO to become the largest toy company in the world? How did a Pakistani couple challenge the global athletic shoe industry? What simple habits led Lady Gaga, Banksy, and Lin-Manuel Miranda to their remarkable success? Big Little Breakthroughs isn't just for propeller-head inventors, fancy-pants CEOs, or hoodie-donning tech billionaires. Rather, it's a surpassingly simple system to help everyday people become everyday innovators. Mission X was created after the coma and near-death experience of journalist and author Uwe H. Sueltz. Without the quick action of his partner Renate Sueltz he would have died. More science fiction short stories have been slumbering in the minds of the author team for decades. About the writing team: Renate Sueltz writes children's books, poetry, cookbooks, short novels and short stories. Renate Sueltz was among others. employed in an advertising agency. There she was responsible for poster designs, as well as web design. She also worked in nursing and was trained here. She was responsible for patient care and support, as well as team organization and leadership. Uwe H. Sültz also writes under different pseudonyms. The list of all genres and subgenres is long. To show that one can make a difference with diligent work, Sültz invested in a dilapidated and run-down doctor's practice, managed it and led the laboratory. He returned the doctor's practice after a short, intensive time in the profit zone and saved so many jobs. He has also worked freelance for a TV station (accreditation). His journalistic contributions included the following Topics: - Art and culture - Car & Traffic - Sports & Entertainment - Nature & Travel - Science and research - Politics & Current Affairs - Business & Management A little boy named Mikey talks about sin, Jesus Christ, and the spreading of God's word by missionaries. Megachurches get the headlines, but the reality is that the overwhelming majority of churches are small. These smaller churches are just as committed to God's overarching mission as any big church is. In fact, in many ways they are uniquely qualified to do so. The leaders of these churches need a resource that understands their real-world context. Now, thanks to Jeff Allen, a Colorado pastor, they have one. Instead of extolling the latest church growth fads, Allen focuses on what's truly important--developing a fruitful culture of discipleship and mission in your particular church, no matter its size. Inside, you'll find practical tips on everything from the pastor's focus to church polity. In this much-needed resource, Allen connects church leaders and church members to the bigness of God's mission in the world, and encourages them toward partnering with God and others in ways they can actually put into practice. Excerpt from Revival Gems: A Small Book With a Big Mission Revival gems is published to meet the current demand a good song book at a low price. While designed for revival meetings, it is also suitable for Sunday Schools, mid-week meetings and Sunday night services, and will be welcomed by pastors, evangelists and superintendents everywhere.
